Performance Max

Performance Max

The goal

For nearly 150 years, the name Marks & Spencer has been synonymous with quality, style, innovation, and value. Offering a wide selection of food, clothing, and home goods, Marks & Spencer is a trusted and beloved brand.

With advertising costs on the rise and return on ad spend diminishing, the team at Marks & Spencer pivoted their advertising strategy to leveraging Microsoft Performance Max while it was still in beta.

The solution

By trialing PMAx, Marks & Spencer was able to leverage capabilities, combining them with the power of engaging ads that helped them reach the right audience at the right time.

By maximizing conversions and experimenting with different combinations of creative assets, Marks and Spencer saw significant results and all from a single, unified campaign. PMAx boosted revenue by 227% with just a 32% spend increase.

Microsoft Performance Max has been incredibly successful. Marks & Spencer has been able to control costs and improve ROAS while ensuring paid search is hitting its targets, which plays a large part in Marks & Spencer's business success.
